ARCH 419—Historic Building Preservation
Spring 2017
Instructor: Paul Hardin Kapp, AIA LEED AP, Assoc. Professor
Meeting Time: MWF, 11:00-11:50 AM

ARCH 419, Historic Building Preservation, is an introduction survey course to the theory of historic preservation in the United States and the concept of patrimony at multiple governmental and institutional levels. ARCH 419 primarily focuses on the theory of historic preservation from the viewpoint of the architect.

The class will be involved in a historic structures report and there will be a mid-term examination and a final examination offered in this course. For more information, please contact Professor Kapp at phkapp@illinois.edu
